

Name of intervention:

Bereavement support

Intent: To enable children to navigate themselves through grief, and any other subsiding emotions, as a result of their bereavement. Children will have 1-1 support in a quiet area.

Implementation: Children identified through parents contacting Carly directly, face to face, telephone or email, or by speaking to their child's class teacher. Children will be offered an individual support plan depending on their level of need. A bank of resources and books are used from children's bereavement charities and organisations.

Impact: Children are able to talk through their emotions in a quiet space with Mrs Taylor. Families have a point of contact with Carly, so the child and their family can rest assured that their child is getting the guidance and support they need.
